Backgrounder

The International Citizens' Inquiry into 9/11 – Phase 2 is scheduled for May 25-30, 2004 at the Ukrainian Cultural Center (83 Christie, just north of the Christie subway at Bloor) and the University of Toronto's famed Convocation Hall. Phase 1 of the Inquiry was held in San Francisco, March 26-28, 2004 (see video at snowshoefilms.com).

Phase 3 is scheduled to launch in New York City on September 12, 2004

Purpose

The purpose of the Inquiry is to provide a forum for 9/11 citizen researchers to share the findings of their investigations with the general public. It is the most ambitious independent civic event of its kind thus far and is entirely citizen-conceived, citizen-run, and citizen-funded.

Organizers of each phase of the Inquiry are working together closely. Feature length video documentaries of Inquiry proceedings are in production. Proceedings will also be published in book and web form.

With confidence sinking every day that the official U.S. Government's Kean Commission will ask any genuine truth-revealing questions about 9/11, the work of these independent citizen inquiries becomes even more important. The 9/11 Skeptic Movement out of which they have grown is rapidly becoming a real hope for a better future.

Background

9/11 Skeptics

For those new to this subject, 9/11 Skeptics are citizens who do not believe the official “caught-by-surprise,” “intelligence failure” or “incompetence” explanations for the tragic events of September 11, 2001. They also do not accept the cynical exploitation of this official story to plunge the planet into “endless war”, authoritarian regulation, and resource theft by endorsing a “war on terrorism.”

In Toronto

In the months following 9/11, about a dozen 9/11 skeptics in the Toronto area coalesced into a group and adopted the name “Toronto Inquiry Into 9/11.” They mounted two successful public events at the Bloor Cinema.

One member of the group was Barrie Zwicker, producer of The Great Deception series on Vision TV. In late October 2003 he drafted a proposal for an international inquiry. In December his departure from Vision TV enabled him to offer himself for a leadership role. The International Inquiry Into 9/11 was established as an organization in January, 2004. Seed monies to launch it were contributed by Zwicker and other concerned Canadians, and there is now a staff contingent advancing the Inquiry’s work on a daily basis.
